

I believe that the limiting of satellite radio is contrary to the best interests of the public. Allowing the satellite broadcasters the ability to determine content to a subscription-based service is what drives my decision to select that service. As cable TV fulfills the specific, chosen desires of the public, so does satellite radio.

Satellite radio needs to be allowed to develop and broadcast programming of interest to their subscribers and not be arbitrarily limited by laws that are designed to protect entrenched business.